RESOLUTION NO. 22 Rev 2

- 1 WHEREAS,
- 2 The strength and vitality of the labor movement depends heavily on the ability
- 3 of you nger union members to develop into strong and effective labor leaders;
- 4 and
- 5 WHEREAS

6 The AFL-CIO and its affiliate unions recognized this during their 2013
7 convention by passing a resolution expressing that a powerful labor 8 movement can be built only through recognition and inclusion of the full 9 diversity of the labor, including workers of all ages; and,

10 WHEREAS,

11 The resolution called for the AFL-CIO and its affiliates to actively develop 12 initiatives and programs aimed at bringing young workers into the labor 13 movement and become more active within their unions;

14 and,

15 WHEREAS

16 Passage of the AFL-CIO young workers resolution resulted in many 17 startup young workers groups across the country; two successful national 18 summits that attracted and engaged hundreds of young workers and union 19 members, including IFPTE members, activists and community partners; and,

20 WHEREAS,

21 The young worker groups developed deeper skills for young workers to build 22 capacity, run programs in their communities, and educate the public on the 23 importance of labor unions; and,

24 WHEREAS,

25 Given the increasing challenges facing young workers in the United States and 26 Canada today, including stagnant wages, a diminishing manufacturing sector, 27 and unaffordable college loans, young workers face unprecedented 28 challenges in today's workforce; and,

29 WHEREAS.

30 In conjunction with the larger labor movement, IFPTE must recognize these 31 challenges for IFPTE members and young workers in general; and,

32 WHEREAS

33 Advancing leadership training for young workers groups within IFPTE is an 34 important step in ensuring the Federation's continued and future growth, 35 and ability to properly and successfully represent our members;

36 THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED,

37 That the Federation and its affiliated Locals recognize and support youth-38 oriented strategic initiatives and partnerships developed in Canada and the 39 United States, in workplaces, on campuses and in concert with a broad array 40 of like-minded student, youth, advocacy and community organizations to help
41 expand and strengthen the labor movement overall, IFPTE and its affiliated 42 locals in particular, and build a just 43 economy for all workers.

44 THEREFORE BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED,
45 That the Federation establish a "Young Members" Committee, open to 46 young member from every Local, which should convene twice 47 annually and for those locals who are not able to meet in person shall 48 participate by electronic means in order to share our 49 successes and struggles on matters relevant to young members within the 50 Labor Movement, and to facilitate the creation and adoption of unified 51 strategies to engage with and build the future leaders within every IFPTE 52 Local, and the communities they serve. Any financial costs incurred will be 53 borne by the participating local.

On August 26, 2015, the Northwest New Hire Committee approved a request to the Northwest Council to recharter the committee, to reflect the needs of our union and alignment with IFPTE.

Young Member involvement is what SPEEA needs. This does not exclude more seasoned SPEEA member involvement in the committee.
